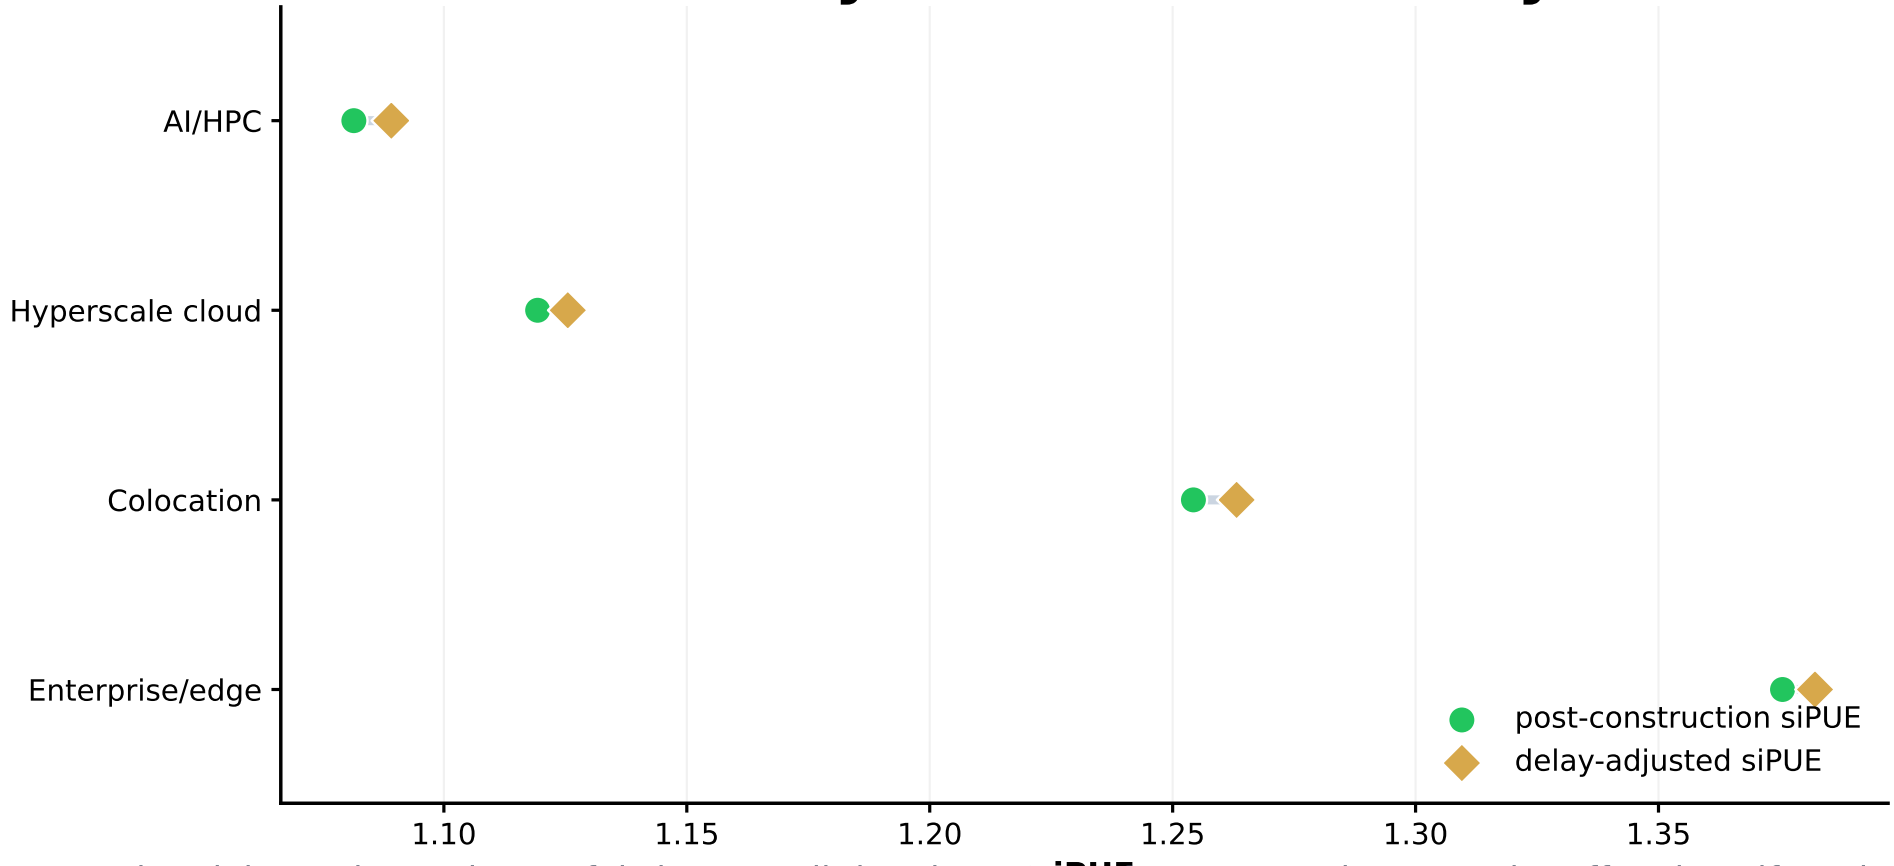
Construction delay weakens useful system credit



Construction delay reduces the useful siPUE credit by about 3.7% for every archetype—the effect is uniform because delay is applied as a single planning assumption, not a per-archetype outcome.